“This program has been pre-approved for 2.5 Professional Development Credits (PDCs) by the Society for Human Resource Management and 2.5 Business (Strategic) recertification credits by the HR Certification Institute.” The Legislative Update will provide HR professionals with insight into recent and pending human resources/labor legislation that will impact compliance issues with their workforce. By the end of this session, participants will:

- Understand how the legislative/regulatory process impacts their day-to-day work lives
- Participants will have some strategies to comply with new workplace laws/regulations
- Attendees will be able to prepare for anticipated new laws affecting the workplace

Frank Kerbein is a graduate of Cornell University’s School of Industrial and Labor Relations, has more than 30 years of experience in human resource administration and is a certified Senior Professional in Human Resources. Frank has held senior human resource management positions in large organizations and not-for-profits, and has been a frequent presenter of human resource topics across the state and nationally. Frank is currently the Director, Center for Human Resources with The Business Council of New York State.

Work and family. Two of the most important areas of life come under Jennifer Shoemaker’s purview as an attorney practicing Family Law and Labor & Employment Law. Jennifer represents clients in the full spectrum of family law issues, including divorce, custody, support actions, the negotiation of separation agreements, adoptions and prenuptial agreements. Her diplomacy, compassion and people skills are an asset to her clients, as is her extensive background in general litigation, dispute settlement and arbitration. In addition to her family law practice, Jennifer represents private and public sector clients in a variety of litigation and employment matters, including contract disputes, tort claims, discrimination, retaliation, workplace issues, and harassment. She also represents clients in complex national liability litigation, and has conducted bench trials and arbitration proceedings. Jennifer has authored several employment law related articles and is a regular lecturer for the Society of Human Resource Management. Jennifer appears in both the Federal and State courts before various government and administrative agencies, including the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the New York Division of Human Rights, OSHA, and the United States Department of Labor.

As part of GVC SHRM's Community Outreach, we will be featuring Lollypop Farm at this program. A representative from Lollypop Farm will be there to speak to participants about how their organization can help organizations and individual
